

Chambers Rosewood

6 Generations of Exceptional Australian “Stickies”

James Halliday - Halliday Wine Companion

"Chambers' Rare Muscat and rare Muscadelle (or Topaque or Tokay, what's in a name?) are the greatest of all in the ferment, the other wines in the hierarchy also magnificent. Stephen Chambers comes into the role as winemaker, the sixth generation of the Chambers family, but father Bill, with his startling blue eyes, is seldom far away....."

James Halliday's Top 100 Australian Wineries

"While this winery can only boast six generations of the Chambers family as owner/winemakers, history oozes out of every corner or the humble corrugated iron winery....."

"The lack of pretension is accompanied by fierce independence of spirit and mind."

Langton's Classification of Australian Wine 30th Anniversary Edition

"The treasured Chambers Rosewood Rare Muscat is based on a fractional blending system that dates back to the 1890's, giving the wine rarity and individuality."

Matthew Jukes

"There are very few wines in the world that are truly iconic, fairly priced and score as highly as this one does in my notes.....Suffice to say that Chambers Rosewood makes legendary Muscat.....I hope that some of the molecules never leave my body because it is a magical elixer."

Robert Parker Jr

"nothing less than national treasures" and "some of the world's most remarkable dessert wines"
