

Gaspard

The House Natural Wine Brand of Jenny and Francois Selections.

“What we call natural wines are wines made with the least possible use of chemicals, additives and overly technological procedures. That includes chemicals in the field, such as pesticides, as well as things like sulfur or any of the almost 200 allowed additives that are legally permitted in wine. And it includes many technological manipulations of wine that we think erase the individuality of the product and the place it comes from—the terroir. ... natural wine, to us, is made of grape juice and little else.” - Jenny Lefcourt

Gaspard is a Jenny & François house label.

The grapes are sourced from a winemaker in the Loire Valley who makes the wines to their specifications.

Jenny met a Parisian artist and asked her to create labels for this project.

They put their heads together and came up with a name “Gaspard,” and a joyful label for lovely Loire-Valley creations.
